

CALL FOR PAPERS

Special Issue: A Style Perspective: The use and understanding of style differences to enhance learning.

Guest Editors:

Carol Evans (Institute of Education, London) and Eva Cools (Vlerick Leuven Gent Management School, Belgium).

This Special Edition of Reflecting Education will involve a selection of papers presented at the 13th Annual European Learning Styles Information Network (ELSIN) Conference to be held at the Vlerick Leuven Gent Management School, Ghent, Belgium (www.elsin2008.com).

Conference participants are invited to submit papers for consideration that focus on using a knowledge of style differences to inform learning and teaching, clearly demonstrating an understanding of style and application to practice. In addition to the central theme of style and cultural differences, papers addressing the following areas will be considered:

- Style differences in human performance across global corporate settings
- Networking knowledge production and dissemination in style research
- Collaboration
- Developing methodologies for researching style in human performance
- Putting style research into practice in the classroom
- Style test development and psychometrics

Expressions of interest, including a 500 word abstract should be sent by 30 April 2008 to Carol Evans (carol.evans@dur.ac.uk) and Eva Cools (eva.cools@vlerick.be).

Accepted revisions of papers should be completed by 15 August 2008 and final submissions by 31 October 2008.
